Iqbal Khan

On his plans for this New Year:

I am not the type who likes to party let alone be tagged a party animal. For me New Year is like a holiday, it is like taking time off from your tight schedule. I am just planning to take my wife Sneha somewhere up North. To any place which is quiet and where the weather is cold. I don't like noisy places. As I stated to me it is time off, time to spend with my family. For me it is all about spending quality time with my family- my mother, father and my wife Sneha.

On what he will be wearing:

I think as I am going to the North which would be chilling by now, I would be wearing jeans, t-shirts and sweaters. Nothing special as I am a very simple guy.

On his best New Year party ever:

See I come from a very small town in Kashmir, so there we never used to celebrate New Year on a very large scale. So nothing so extra ordinary I can recall. Also that time I never had money to spend.

On the one thing that he loves the most about New Year:

It is about welcoming the New Year with a positive feeling. It is like starting the coming year afresh. The arrival of the New Year comes with a message to start your life anew. Inshallah! I hope every thing happens for my best.

On his expectations from the coming year:

You know the year 2007 started mid-way for me. I started working in Chhoona Hai Aasmaan six months back. So for me six months are still left. Actually my New Year is going to start after six months from now. So just hoping my work is liked by one and all.
