

Aiming for the sky:
Iqbal Khan

'I am slightly boring'

His stint in Bollywood was a forgettable one. And then small screen came calling and he made quite an impression as Angad in the TV serial, Kaisa Yeh Pyaar Hai. And now he will be seen in Chhoona Hai Aasmaan. As he came to the Capital to talk about his latest venture, Bhawna Gera caught up with him for a chat.

Small screen did big wonders for you. Isn't it?

I've managed to survive. Kaisa Yeh Pyaar Hai made me a household name.

Passing through

Many actors mind shifting from films to television..

You've to do something. I was going through a bad phase after my films flopped. Television didn't click me at that time, but

I couldn't say no when Sony approached me. After all, I had to take care of my daily expenses.

It must be disappointing considering you left your studies for a career in Bollywood?

It was depressing. I shifted to Mumbai before finishing my graduation. But things didn't work out. Fun2ssh had nothing to offer and Bullet was a disaster. I'd do the sickest of jobs one could imagine. Television gave me everything I wanted. I'm excited about Chhoona Hai Aasmaan. Personally, I'm content now as I got married few months back.

You're quite reserved. Don't you believe in doing personal PR?

In real life, I'm slightly boring. As for talking non-stop to get noticed, I don't do that. People want to write about only those they want to. So, why waste time?