One dishy Khan steps into the show just as another is about to be 'killed off'.

No wonder the gossip mills of tellydom have swung into frantic motion.

It's Khan-vs-Khan time.

"A cross between Sanjay Dutt and Salman Khan". So specified the brief for the role of rockstar Angad Khanna in Sony's Kaata Yeh Pyaar Hai. With that yardstick in mind Ekta Kapoor sifted through a thousand contestants and zeroed in on Iqbal Khan. Last month, the show completed a year. During which time he shot to fame as yet another Star Khan of the small-screen. Dollops of charisma, a rippled baritone, speckled stubble and a fabled attitude, gave his portrayal of Angad an inimitable edge.

Today, Iqbal Khan's magnetic appeal, good looks, hot babe-cute smile and irresistible charm make him one of the most lusted-after studs in town. (Sorry, girls, he already has a babe.)

Last but not the least, there's his volcanic talent. Iqbal is a powerhouse performer and even Ekta Kapoor admits that he is by far the most promising actor in her stable.

As things stand today, Ekta's faith and Iqbal's hard work
